We present issue 2, corresponding to volume 5, of the Tourism and Identity Magazine. The current publication is composed of four articles by Colombian and Mexican authors. The first article seeks to identify innovative trends in sustainable technologies for the registration and check-in of guests in the hotel sector in the municipality of Ipiales in Colombia; the second article refers to the impact of the Maya Train on tourism development in Mexico, through a bibliometric analysis; the third is a quantitative study of food waste in Cancun hotels in Mexico; and the fourth is a qualitative study of the Veracruz tourism region ‘Primeros pasos de Cortés’ in Mexico, which aims at understanding the historical and cultural perspectives that gave rise to the tourism region that is strengthened today.

We continue to maintain our editorial policy, evaluating through double blind refereeing all the articles that form part of the Journal and we continue to form part of prestigious search catalogues and various indexing bodies.

We thank all those who, with their participation, make the publication of a new issue of our Journal possible.
